Thanksgiving Service for the life of Richard Hodder

The Daily Telegraph announced Richard Hodder's passing aged 75 in early September. He had the same cancer as my father and funds were raised for Myeloma UK.

Clive Lewis & Partners were Land Securities' sole advisors in the mid 1980s and advised them on their investment acquisitions and developments for many years. Richard joined John Maynard and Roland Nevett within the Ravenside Investments team and worked with me on a number of schemes, as well as the fall-out from Lowndes Queensway's administration in 1992.

Many in the out-of-town retail marketplace sent their condolences to his wife and daughter, also a Chartered Surveyor, and I was pleased to be able to attend the service together with Graham Chase and John Shuttleworth.
